Help employees and their families improve pregnancy outcomes and lower costs.

Expenses for childbirth and newborn care make up a large part of what employers pay in health insurance costs. Babies born preterm, in particular, can cost more. To help reduce this risk and the associated costs, it’s important that the mother gets excellent maternity care.

As a part of your benefit plan, UnitedHealthcare’s Healthy Pregnancy Program provides screenings and resources to expectant mothers to help identify and manage high-risk pregnancies and potential neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) babies before delivery.

Identification of high-risk pregnancies can lead to healthier mothers and babies.

The program helps increase gestational ages and birth rates of babies by offering employees one-on-one support from specialized obstetric nurses who can help educate and inform them about their care and treatment options. Employees also have access to many tools and resources, so they can be well-prepared for the baby’s arrival.

- Pregnancy guidance: Support to help achieve a healthy pregnancy.
- Risk management: Early identification of high-risk triggers with monitoring and management.
- Specialized obstetrics nurse access for high-risk pregnancies: One-to-one education, support and special care.
- Postpartum care: Six weeks of educational support and parenting coaching after birth.

Each year in the United States:¹

- Almost 11% of babies covered by employer health plans are born prematurely.

Average medical costs during baby’s first year:¹

- Healthy baby: $4,389
- Preterm baby: $54,149

Medical cost is 12x higher

UnitedHealthcare®
Help support healthier pregnancies.

The program provides simple, cost-efficient care and essential screenings for those already pregnant through six weeks postpartum. Upon enrollment, employees take a health assessment to help identify any risks or special needs. Employees also receive:

Pregnancy educational materials — Employees receive important educational materials covering a wide range of topics based on their needs. Topics include nutrition, exercise, warning signs, things to avoid, fetal development, preparing for childbirth, breastfeeding, infant care and more.

24-hour, toll-free support — Employees also have 24-hour, toll-free telephone access to experienced nurses who can answer questions or help employees learn and practice healthy pregnancy habits to protect their baby's well-being.

Dedicated maternity nurses — Experienced obstetrics nurses will help determine what, if any, risks or complications could arise during pregnancy and will provide one-on-one support for high-risk cases.

Post-delivery support — After birth, there are outcome assessments for delivery, mother's well-being and postpartum depression.

The Healthy Pregnancy Program helps your employees and your organization.

Employees:
- Early identification of high-risk triggers.
- Personalized support that helps minimize complications.
- Six weeks postpartum educational support.
- Integration with UnitedHealthcare’s NICU programs and resources to provide a continuum of care.

Employers:
- Direct potential cost savings through reduced medical costs and NICU days.
- Indirect potential cost savings through reduced absenteeism, increased employee satisfaction and retention.
